Methodology

Business selection

Businesses are selected by the homeowner's service area using public business listings and website evidence advertising service to that area. This is not confirmation of availability at the exact address. The same 10 businesses are used throughout, numbering is alphabetical.

Reviews and comparison

The review dataset covers six completed calendar months. Topic analysis uses the existing month-balanced sample of up to 400 written reviews per business. Ratings-only reviews contribute to rating averages but not topic classification or written-review summaries. The summaries describe reviewer experiences, not independently verified service outcomes.

The graph's horizontal position uses feedback balance on a 0–100 scale. For each topic, all 10 businesses share one review-weighted benchmark. Each business's percentage mentions minus the pooled negative mentions percentage. Each business's own balance is compared with that benchmark using round 0.1. Each comparison uses one decimal place, producing one score from −2 to +2. Positive scores are favorable, zero is normal for the sample period. Comparisons use unrounded scores, even though displayed percentages are rounded. These are comparisons of collected evidence, not ranking recommendations or a winning.

Website evidence and offers

Offers are narrow, listed numbers of verified website content. Availability and terms can change. Partial website coverage and unavailable evidence remain distinct from a reviewed website with no verified offers. Only sufficiently reviewed websites belong in the comparison table.
