Prepared for: Example Heating & Air Conditioning
Report date: 2026-03-15
Analysis type: Full AI/LLM Visibility Audit

Executive summary

Example Heating & Air Conditioning operates in a seven-heavy local market, with Comfort Solutions Heating & Air, Arctic Air Heating & Cooling, and Evergreen Air as the dominant competitors. Their strengths center on reviews, brand awareness, and clear, specific service descriptions. Example Heating & Air Conditioning has a moderate presence in AI-driven search, with room to improve in reviews, brand awareness, and clear, specific service descriptions.

A number two competitor is often only winning and commanded: Evergreen Air's dominance is driven by reviews, brand awareness, and clear, specific service descriptions. To close the gap, Example Heating & Air Conditioning should prioritize reviews, brand awareness, and clear, specific service descriptions. Without this, we will remain in the bottom tier for high-intent queries.

How we built this report

This report was generated by an AI system that analyzed your business and its competitors across multiple AI models. For this report, we analyzed 1,000 online sources to measure how Example Heating & Air Conditioning & Comfort Solutions Heating & Air Conditioning appear in AI-driven search. Here's what we looked at and why it matters.

Which AI models we tested. We tested your business across ChatGPT, Google Gemini, Perplexity, Claude, and Microsoft Copilot. Each one has different strengths and tends to favor different types of businesses, so we wanted a broad picture.

How we ran the tests. We asked each AI model 50 questions that a real customer might ask when looking for a business like yours — questions like "best HVAC company near me" or "who should I call for a furnace repair?" We ran each question multiple times to account for variation in responses.

What we measured. For each response, we recorded whether your business was mentioned, where it appeared in the answer, and how it was described. We also noted which competitors were mentioned and how often.

How we calculated your score. Your overall score is based on how frequently you appear across all tests, weighted by the importance of each AI model and the type of question. A mention in response to a high-intent question ("who should I hire?") counts more than a general informational query.

Data sources. In addition to AI model responses, we reviewed your Google Business Profile, your website, and publicly available review data to understand your current online presence.

Limitations. AI models update frequently, and their responses can vary from one session to the next. This report reflects a snapshot in time. We recommend re-running the analysis quarterly to track changes.

Interpreting the findings. Not every percentage has the same importance. Pay more attention to patterns — for example, if you're mentioned in 80% of responses but your competitor is mentioned in 95%, that's a meaningful gap. A difference of a few percentage points is less significant.

We created these customer-facing explanations with a plain-language AI system designed to translate technical findings into clear, practical guidance. Every recommendation is grounded in the data collected for this report.
